“ Cody was a talented golfer and probably could have played the pro tour at some level. He probably didn't want to live with the discipline, practice, and self-control required for that. For Cody, golf was just for fun and fellowship. He gave lessons for a couple of summers in Bald Knob and taught me to play golf. I enjoyed the game for many years because he taught me good basics. Haven't seen Cody for years, but there are good memories of those Summers and the fun we all had. RIP friend. I know it hasn't been easy.

“ I remember my young cousin as a vivacious rascal, always smiling. We shared a number of summers together, along with Mike, typically at their house in Searcy or at our grandparents in Hollywood. The front yard saw many baseball games and the surrounding woods were witness to many games of good-guys/bad-guys or cowboys versus Indians. My mother, "Aunt Ginny" as he used to call her would constantly chide him as he would run through the house while visiting us, many times interrupting her housework, to which she responded "Cody Lee!!!" RIP, Cody...may you finally have found peace.
