“ Condolences to Nancy and the family. Dwain was a helpful, likable and pleasant man. He was important in my life, in that he invited me to work on a team finishing out the first freeway into Chicago in the summer of 1956, along with his brother Leon and James Sneebly. We worked hard that year but made good money which allowed me to return school at U of Arkansas. I will be forever grateful to Dwain for asking me to work in the group. What great fun and great, great experiences.

He could be funny and loved to be participate in a prank, as I experienced several end results, most best not described here. We morn his loss along with the family.
