“ Phyllis "Ann" and I were close even living far apart. As children we were penpals. I remember the time she came home to CA with my family and talked me into taking my parents steaks out of the freezer for breakfast. Boy did we ever get into trouble.

“ I've known her all my life and no one could push my buttons like her, after all she was my life for the childhood years. I'm told for years I didn't even bother to speak, just looked at her and she spoke for me. The thing I lived for was for my big sister to play with me. We grew and lived our separate lives. She loved, she married, she had heart breaks, but she loved again, married again and spent 40 years with Doug and when they had been married for years, when they'd decided they just might not have children, God blessed them with one, then two beautiful girls. She was always there for her family and I knew I could count on her. You see, while she might know how to push my buttons she also knew how to push the love button as well.

I know because of health issues her life has not been easy the last several years and I know her spirit is in a much better place but I will miss her more than words can say. I just turn to her spirit to speak for me. I love you, sister. Run free with your beautiful young body. You will always be beautiful to me because, you see, I've known you all my life.

“ I still remember the fun times when I worked with Phyllis at The Daily Citizen in 1982. We shared an office, and had a lot of laughs. Then later we attended the same church for awhile. So saddened to hear of her passing. Praying God will comfort Doug and the girls.

“ I don't know if you will remember me Phyllis Marinell and I were the three musketeers in high school. we got together as often as possible in later years but we all had jobs ,families and lived in different towns so getting together was hard.It was especially hard for me when Marinell died it took me a long time to get past it.I should have kept in touch with Phyllis more.I will always regret that I didn't. I didn't get to tell either of them goodbye.I will miss her and always knowing she was there.Im very sorry for your loss.
