“ Cheryl and I made the trip to Searcy to visit Garndma just this past weekend Jan 29th and 30th. Out of nowhere something told me that I should take Cheryl to see grandma that weekend or we would not have another chance. Thank God we were able to be there to tell her how much we love her and to talk about the good times when she would cook for us when we came to visit. On Sunday before we headed back to Nashville we spent some time with her that morning. She seemed to know who we were more so than she did on Saturday. We sat there with her in the dinning room for a while, her holding hands with Cheryl. I took some pictures of the two of them together with my iPhone. They looked so happy smiling together in those pictures. We went by Grandmas house for a little while and Cheryl was able to walk around remembering how it used to be. We headed back home knowing that, more than likely we had visited with Grandma for the last time. We just didn't expect it to be this soon. We love you Grandma!

“ Ann,
So saddened to hear of the death of your mom. I remember her being in the cafeteria when we were in school. I would point out what piece of pizza I wanted and she would always try to make sure I got it. She was a fun person and I know you all loved her dearly.

We will have your family in our prayers. We love you guys.

“ Aunt Welcie has always held a special place in my heart. I remember riding through the pastures there, behind my brother on one of the atv's, getting as close to the cows as we dared. And I remember Aunt Welcie out in the yard, in the shade on her swing, smiling and waving as we rode by.

Aunt Welcie, you will be missed until we meet again.

Love, Sarah :)

“ Often when we were "home" to visit with mother (Evelyn Payne) she would make blackberry cobbler especially for Jim because she knew he loved it. All of us did, but he knew it was for him. Once when we were there and his sister Debbie was also they were arguing about who the cobbler was for. Debbie was sure it was made especially for her, but Jim knew it was for him. It was obvious to me it was another of the many ways Welcie made the people she loved feel special. I have been a part of her life for 30 years, married into her circle of loved one and I can tell you she made me feel special from the very beginning. I am sorry we could not be there for her funeral due to the weather, but i assure you we were there in spirit. We love you Welcie, and we will see you soon. Tell Mom hi for us. I know you two are in heaven together smiling down on us. Love Donna
